APPENDIX I

Key Features of Trade and Exchange System

The currency of the Islamic Republic of Iran is the Iranian Rial, convertible to other currencies in the interbank market for current account transactions of BOP. The country's foreign exchange regime is managed float. Iran has accepted the obligations of Article VIII of the IMF Articles of Agreement, effective from September 6, 2004. IMF members accepting the obligations undertake to refrain from imposing restrictions on the making of payments and transfers for current international transactions, or from engaging in discriminatory currency arrangements or multiple currency practices, except with IMF approval. In the area of financial transactions, all activities are authorized except for Foreign Portfolio Investment (FPI) and opening of foreign exchange accounts by non-residents.

With the elimination of non-tariff barriers and reducing of tariffs, foreign trade activities were eased, and its share in GDP has increased during the 3rd Plan. Structural reforms in the areas of unification of exchange rate, revision of tax law, adjustment of tariff rates, elimination of non-tariff barriers, privatization of economic activities, revision of Foreign Investment Promotion and Protection Act, expansion of capital market, streamlining foreign exchange regulations and establishment of the OSF were among measures adopted for facilitating foreign trade and financial transactions during recent years.

APPENDIX II

Summary of the Current Foreign Exchange and Monetary Policies During 1383

A. Foreign Exchange and Trade Policies (1379-83)

1. To accelerate export process and encourage exporters, surrender requirements were relaxed and export activities exempted from tax since 1381. Moreover, in order to cover the risk of presence in new target markets and to compensate for the probable decline in international export prices of goods and services, the government approved regulations pertaining to export subsidies.

2. To facilitate import of goods, the CBI gradually reduced the LC advance payments to 10 percent, and since 1381, banks determine the LC prepayment at their own discretion. The banking system was also authorized to extend facilities to finance imports. Ultimately, setting the amount of advance payment was vested with banks. Moreover, the Ministry of Commerce gradually reduced import tariff rates and eliminated all non-tariff barriers except for health and quarantine certificates.

3. To enhance export, the rate of return on export facilities was reduced to 14 percent, and coverage of the Export Guarantee Fund was expanded to cover non-commercial risks of export activities.

4. To facilitate transactions with international markets and to ease transfer of technical and managerial know-how, the new Foreign Investment Promotion and Protection Act raised the ceiling of foreign activities in each sector and activity to 25 and 35 percent, respectively. Moreover, foreign investors were authorized to invest in commercial and financial sectors.

5. To pave the ground for convertibility of the Iranian currency and competitiveness of financial operations, foreign banks were authorized to open branches in the free-trade zones. Moreover, secondary foreign exchange market was established in these zones. The regulations pertaining to these activities were announced by the CBI in 1381.

6. To promote and facilitate non-oil exports, the government approved and announced the "comprehensive export plan" in the areas of financing in rial and foreign exchange, providing commercial and non-commercial insurance coverage, marketing, subsidy payments, tax exemptions and establishment of special financing and guarantee funds in 1383.

7. To further facilitate non-oil exports process, the Export Development Bank of Iran and Export Guarantee Fund expanded their areas of activities through opening credit lines for importers of Iranian goods and services (especially importers of the neighboring countries). Moreover, the insurance coverage was also expanded to include political and non-commercial risks of exporters. Furthermore, it was announced that the OSF sources could be utilized for non-oil export promotion.

B. Monetary Policies Approved by the MCC, and Budget Law for 1383 (2004/05)

The share of various sectors out of total increase in the outstanding facilities of the non-public sector, after deducting free uses, legal obligations and from Gharz-al-hasaneh facilities to meet urgent needs and for employment for commercial banks are as follows:

SECTORAL ALLOCATION OF BANKING FACILITIES EXTENDED TO NON-PUBLIC SECTOR (percent)
Agriculture and water	25

Total	100

2. To enhance competition, banks having more flexibility are authorized to set the rates on two, three, and four-year deposits within the said range.

3. Rate of return on banking facilities: Except for the (minimum) expected profit rate of manufacturing and mining and exports sectors which are reduced by one percentage point compared to rates of 1382. The rates of facilities in other sectors in public banks are the same as previous year.

5. CBI participation papers: Considering the liquidity growth targeted for the current year, and liquidity pressure in the initial months of the year, the CBI is authorized to issue Rls. 5,000 billion new participation papers in addition to those issued to substitute previous matured ones, with 17 percent profit rate per annum.

6. Participation papers ceiling (subject of Article 4 of the Law for the Issuance of Participation Papers): The ceiling for issuance of off-budget participation papers in 1383 is set at Rls. 5 trillion.
